British Vogue

Sungai is a truly magical place, where you are living in luxury, but without losing the authentic Bali feel. It's not easy to offer immaculate service and be disarmingly down to earth at the same time, but the staff at Sungai managed the trick with aplomb and truly were exceptional. I understand why you have so many repeat customers, as it is the perfect villa for friends or a family to escape to and fully relax and unwind, in pure tranquillity amongst the tropical gardens.

THE BEST OF BALI – VILLA SUNGAI

COVERAGE IN THE UK MAGAZINE BOE...

It does sound as if this might be a fantastical scene from a Rudyard Kipling novel – a diary of colonial extravagance where one harkens back to the days of dressing for dinner, personal staff on hand 24/7, and taking cocktails amidst a tangle of wild jungle. Well, this is what guests of Sungai Villa can truly expect. Never have I stayed somewhere that captures this idyllic bubble so well. Descending the entrance steps; being welcomed by your private team of impeccably mannered staff; settling into cream-hued rooms that are decked out with four poster beds– it all seems like some marvellous dream. You know those times when you feel as if you're in a movie of your own life? This could be it.

Villa Sungai was born out of a desire to offer something a little different to the world of five-star hospitality. On an island where there seems to be a new resort or luxury hotel appearing with frightening frequency, this approach is necessary and wholly welcome. Bali has long been the destination of those looking for an indulgent escape, but what about those craving the personal experience? The tranquility? The true sense of bespoke service? Then VILLA SUNGAI is for you.

Opulence, greenery, world-class food and infinity pools are just a few reasons to visit these seven luxury resorts in Bali and Lombok

There's only one issue with Villa Sungai – stay there and other hotels might well struggle to compare. This is because Sungai is not strictly a hotel, but an ingenious hybrid combining the personalised privacy of a villa with the effortless charm of a world-class five-star hotel. Set on a blissfully private bank directly above the River Ayung, Sungai boasts 24-hour staff, immaculately chic design, three bedrooms and an infinity edge pool that takes the breath away.

VILLA PANTULAN – BALI

Tucked away just south of Ubud, Pantulan pushes pavilion style living on a grand scale. A series of tranquil water ponds reflect nature back inside, while the view from the second level is rice paddy fields and Mount Batur. In the bathroom, waterfalls vie with hot ponds next to outdoor showers. A dedicated massage/meditation bale is shrouded in a white cloud of curtains. It's as if everything at Pantulan is geared towards a calmer you. A 25m lap pool with infinity edge might also contribute to a fitter you. With five queen size bedrooms and a gourmet cook on hand there's also plenty of opportunity to share the experience with family or friends.

CHATEAU DE GRIMALDI – PROVENCE, FRANCE

Here you can swim amongst the ruins of a 17th century palace but sleep in high nobility in one of the 11 bedrooms. The chateau has been superbly spruced up with a mix of formal antiques and more casual French pieces. There are also a series of party-provoking venue alternatives inside the five hectares (12 acres) of parklands – including the chapel, the stone cellar wine bar and 'disc' and stone terraces. Should the impressive array of antiques inspire you to take some home, the chateau is just a skip from the shopping haunts of Aix-en-Provence. www.frenchchateau.com

VILLA SYLVA – CORFU

This villa comes with its own Bond moment. Featured in For Your Eyes Only, it lags you up with four hectares (nine acres) of olive and bougainvillea shaded lawns that terrace down to your own beachfront. The King of Greece is your Summer neighbour and there's a 20m x 10m pool surrounded by Moroccan marble and grass to recline around. While the main house has nine bedrooms there is also a two-bedroom guest house and a one-bedroom apartment. Inside, cool white and teak interiors, outside it's the endless blue of the Ionian sea that dominates. It is well staffed, including a chef, and with pergolas and bathubs at every turn there will be plenty of your own moments to order that martini.

RIYAD AL MOUSSIKA – MARRAKECH

Our theory is that if you're going to stay in Marrakech you should throw yourself right into the medina. Of course there are ways, and ways of doing this, and Riyad Al Moussika, the residence of the former Pasha of Marrakech, is probably the most glamorous one. With gorgeously ornate tiled courtyards, wrought iron screens and your own private hammam, this is exotic east in overdrive. Even the lap pool is tiled with a mosaic carpet design. While this may be useful for swimming off the delights created by the resident chef, also the six bedrooms and the piano reception room also make lounging its own unavoidable escape.

Villa Sungai

COVER STORY

VILLA SUNGAI – BALI

Bali understands what to do with world weary travellers and Villa Sungai understands better than most. Tucked up on a hillside on the south-west coast, you, there is lush tropical scenery, three pavilion style bedrooms adrift in clouds of mosquito nets and inside/out bathrooms, but it's the anytime/anywhere style service courtesy of the discreetly dedicated staff that will max the pleasure principle of your holiday. Beyond the all-day dining and bar there is someone to book you into the best restaurants, or organise any activity from white water rafting to poolside massage. So relax. www.bali-villasungai.com

LES JOLIES EAUX – MUSTIQUE

This is the villa that HRH Princess Margaret used to escape to when the pressures of being part of the British Royal family got too much. Now you can too. Situated above Gullbous Bay this five-bedroom villa stands on a private peninsula overlooking the Caribbean Sea and Atlantic Ocean, with spectacular views of Carriacou and other Grenadine Islands beyond. Designed for the Princess by Oliver Mossel who then went on to design many other famous Mustique properties, it has just been extensively refurbished and expanded to include special new master bedroom and dining pavilions as well as a media room and an office. The villa facilities include private outdoor porches for each bedroom, a pool and a Jeep. www.caribbeanmqs.com

LA PAUSA – ROQUEBRUNE CAP MARTIN

Coco Chanel ruled the Riviera in her white palazzo pants. And this was her kingdom. Winston Churchill also rented it for several years, and Marlene Dietrich came here to dine. This Cap Martin villa channels a lifestyle straight out of the Belle Epoch with its swooping staircases, views and pool that jut out over the sea, frescoes and period furnishings. Step out into the extensive gardens of this seven-bedrooms villa or plunge into the marble bathtub which has been given its own exquisite room with a view.

CASA SAN MIGUEL – IBIZA

The view is blue on blue as the infinity edge pool spills into the Med. Crisp clean-lined chic erases any lingering doubts that Ibiza also exerts class amid the 24-hour partying. Owned by a Spanish designer, little has been left out of place in the six-bedroom interiors which emphasise cool white comfort. Much of the action happens out on a 100m² terrace with outdoor dining, lounge, sunbeds and a sound system for post sunset dancing. Lights placed on the terrace after dark deepen the mood. Escape with a cocktail into the cosy lounges on the rooftop if you want time out.
